DESCRIPTION.

OUR STANDARD CRIMPED ROOFING is made from Charcoal Iron, about 26 gauge, annealed in a new and improved manner, which makes it the best possible material for metal roofing. Each sheet is warranted to be free from holes, scales and other imperfections. The iron is painted on both sides with the best known metallic paint. Sheets are eight feet long and two feet wide, weight about twelve and one-half pounds each. These sheets can be used on roofs of any size without waste, the iron being very soft and pliable, it can be cut and spliced by means of our lock-joint.

As shown in this cut, the sheets have a crimp on each edge. These crimps lap over each other, and are supported by a triangular wood strip, the whole nailed together by means of our wire barbed nails, which go through both sheets, the triangular wood strip, and extend about one-half inch into the sheathing boards, as represented by the following cut.

The nails are driven in at an angle, and above where the water runs, so that it is impossible for them to cause a leak in the roof. This mode of fastening is the best ever adopted for metal roofing. It is very strong, and cannot blow off. Expansion and contraction are so well provided for that the fastenings never come loose from the effects of heat and cold. It is also very simple—any one can easily put it on. No tools are required but a pair of tinner's hand snips to cut the iron, and a hammer to drive the nails. We use no cleats or caps, such as are used on so-called "elastic joint" roofing, which gives trouble in putting on, and soon become loose, causing roofs to leak and making them liable to blow off.

This cut shows how the ends of sheets are spliced by means of the "lock-joint." No nails are driven into the iron, excepting on the crimp, above where the water runs as described. We furnish the triangular wood strips and wire barbed nails, and send the roofing complete, ready to be put on.

This roofing is used on sheathing boards for all kinds of buildings and on roofs of any shape. Any pitch will do above one inch fall to the foot.

We also make "Center Crimp" roofing and siding, as represented in the following cut:

An extra crimp is put in the center of sheet to stiffen it. This kind can also be used on sheathing boards, but it is generally used direct on the rafters, and for siding, direct on the studding or posts without the use of boards. Rafters and studding or posts should be placed twenty three inches apart between centers. It can be used in this manner for saw and planing mills, rolling mills, cotton sheds, and factories exposed to fire from the inside.

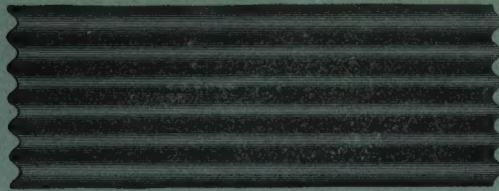

CAUTION.

We have the exclusive right for the United States to manufacture under the patents of W. S. Belt on the roofing and machinery to make it. We will prosecute to the full extent of the law any one infringing on said patents. Those using the roofing are equally liable with the manufacturers in case of infringement.

CORRUGATED IRON.

We manufacture all kinds of corrugated Iron from No. 14 gauge to No. 27.

Our machinery is the largest and most improved ever used for the purpose. By pressing the sheets into moulds, they are made more perfect than is possible in the old way—by passing them through rolls. The corrugations are uniform and deep, and the sheets are made very flat adding to their appearance and making them easy to put on. The edges of the sheets are carefully trimmed, thus making perfect joints without waste of material.

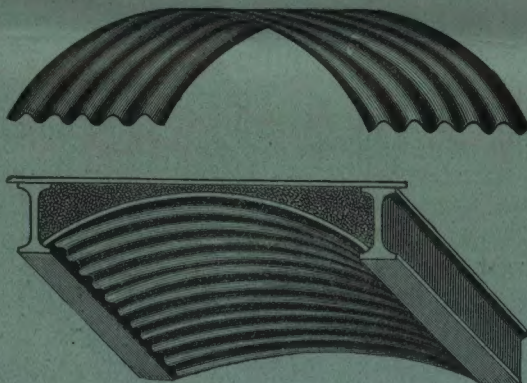

This cut shows a sheet of Corrugated Iron such as is used on sides of buildings. Corrugations are two and one-half inches apart from center to center. These sheets can be furnished in lengths to suit the buildings. The sides of sheets are lapped one corrugation, and are fastened by wire barbed nails made especially for the purpose, as shown in the following cut:

We make Corrugated Iron with one and one-fourth inch corrugations, expressly for ceilings. It makes a cheap fire-proof ceiling, easily fastened to the joists. It can be painted any color.

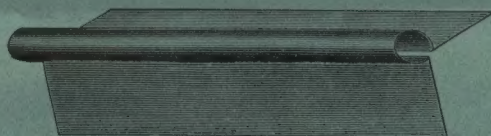

Cut representing sheet of Corrugated Iron ceiling. We furnish this unpainted, unless otherwise ordered.

CURVED IRON.

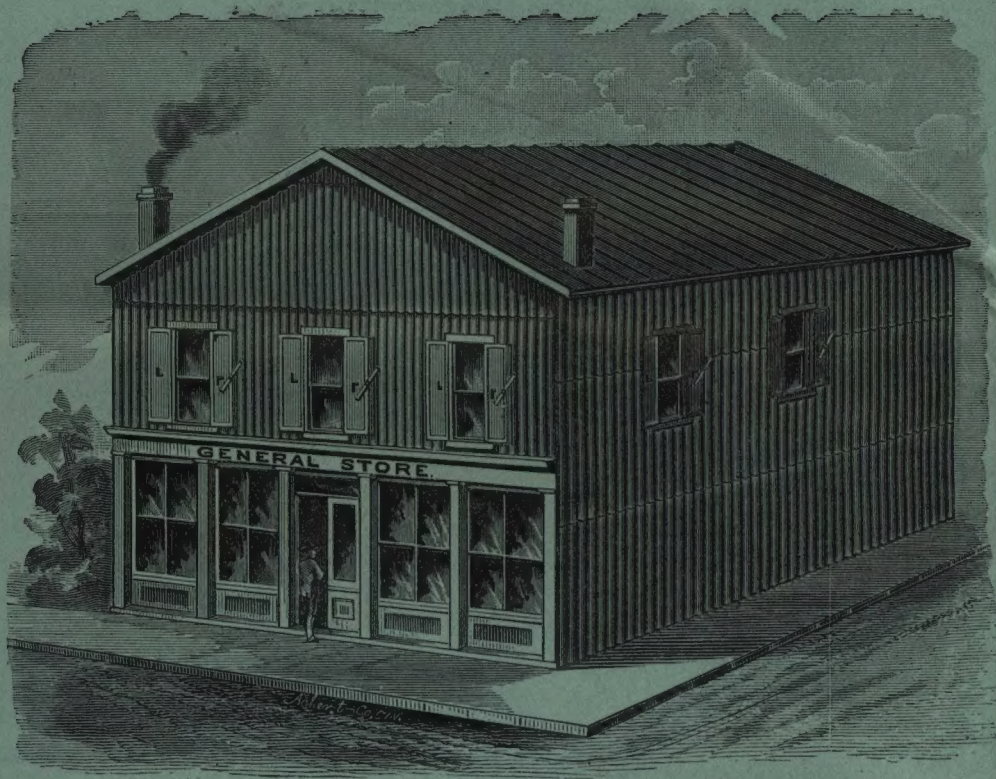

We make Curved Iron of any pitch and of any guage, for ceilings, etc.

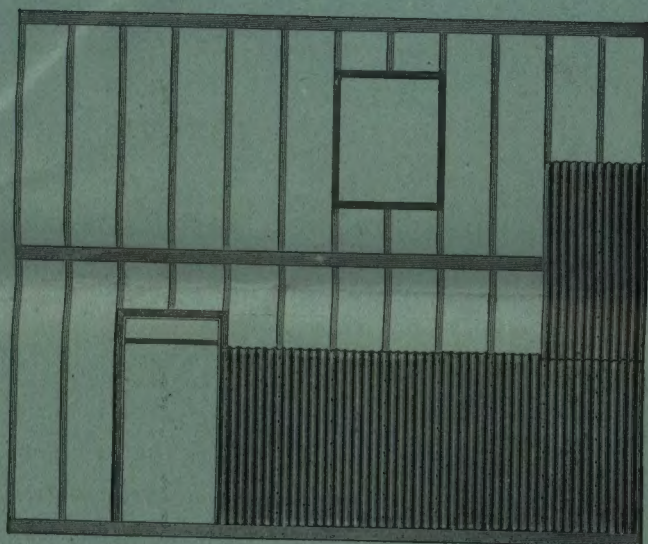

CAP FOR RIDGE OF ROOFS.

No. 26 Corrugated Iron is generally used on the sides. For this guage, the studding or posts should be placed twenty-three and one-half inches apart between centers. The iron can be readily cut to fit around doors, windows, etc.

All our Roofing and Corrugated Iron is carefully packed in strong boxes, so that there is no danger from damage in shipping.

As represented in the above cut, our material makes a very handsome fire-proof building—the crimped roofing and corrugated siding. It is used very extensively in this manner for stores, warehouses, factories, sheds, etc. It fills a serious want in cities where it is desired to erect temporary buildings, but where wooden buildings are prohibited by “fire laws,” and in towns without fire departments. It cannot be destroyed by the burning of surrounding buildings, and if it is necessary to remove the building the iron can be taken off and used again.

The corrugated iron for sides can be placed direct on studding or posts, without the use of boards, as shown in the above cut of the sides of a building in course of construction.

In ordering, the shape and dimensions of roofs and sides should be given that the proper amount of material may be sent, and directions for putting on. When possible, a sketch of building should be sent.

The central location of our city enables us to ship to all parts of the country at low rates of freight.

The following Testimonials, coming as they do from representative men in all kinds of business, from every section of the country, who have used our roofing for many years, on all kinds of buildings, bear the highest testimony of its merits.

A careful examination of these Testimonials will prove beyond question the durability, simplicity and strength of our Roofing; that it is fire, water, wind and lightning proof, and that it is not affected by heat or cold—all these qualities having been tested in the most thorough manner.

Testimonials from FLORIDA, Continued.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—When I first got your Roofing I covered my mill and gin house with it, which made as good a roof as any man could possibly want. Very soon my mill and gin house burned, I took the same roofing, straightened it out and covered my buildings again with it. I now have a perfectly tight roof, and any one will have to examine very closely, or it can never be detected but that it is all new roofing. With an occasional coat of paint I feel sure the roof will last a life time.

Testimonials from MISSOURI, Continued.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I can safely say that your Iron Roofing is the best I ever saw, and I have seen a great many different kinds. It is lightning proof. If any doubt this, let them come to Archie for proof. The chimney of my house was struck by lightning last October. The electric fluid ran down the chimney to the Iron Roof and scattered. The house was not damaged. Lightning rods are nowhere.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The Iron Roofing purchased of you, I am pleased to say, has given entire satisfaction, and I am much pleased with my purchase.

Peeplesville, S. C., Dec. 29, 1882.

H. H. PEEPLES,
General Merchant.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I used your Iron Roofing on my Store four years ago. I was so well pleased with it that I used it to cover my Dwelling and other buildings. I think it makes a very neat and durable roof. I would not exchange my roofs for any other kind I ever saw.

Williamstown, S. C., Jan. 8, 1883.

J. B. ROGERS.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I am having our roofs examined, and I find those you furnished us several years ago are standing our climate well. They stand the test of our salt atmosphere very well.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 7, 1883.

JAS. S. MURDOCK, Secy. and Treas.
Charleston Bagging Co.

TENNESSEE.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I can cheerfully state that your Iron Roofing has given perfect satisfaction in every respect. With proper attention it will be very durable.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—We are glad to inform you that the Iron Roofing and Siding bought of you by Bohlen, Huse & Co., and ourselves, has given perfect satisfaction.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 26, 1882.

SPEED & GRAVES,
Memphis City Mills.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—Regarding your Iron Roofing, I will say that my roof covered with it is the best I ever saw. I would not use any other kind. It is very easy to put on by any one. Expansion and contraction are so well provided for, that the hot sun has no effect on the fastenings. I regret that I did not use it sooner.

Mitchell, Robertson Co., Tenn., Dec. 28, 1882.

JAS. GROOVES, Sr.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—We have used your Iron Roofing to cover two roofs, and it gives perfect satisfaction.

Carter Depot, Carter Co., Tenn., Dec. 27, 1882.

G. W. ST JOHN.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The Iron Roofing we bought of you three years ago "fills the bill" exactly, and is all you claim for it. It is certainly the best Roofing in use.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—It affords us much pleasure in reporting to you that in every instance where we have sold your Iron Roofing, it has more than given satisfaction, and from the fact that our sales for same in the past twelve months have more than doubled, is proof sufficient of its popularity in this section.
 LABATT & CO.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 3, 1879.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—About eight years ago I bought some of your Iron Roofing, from W. S. Belt, and covered my Planing Mill. I recently had occasion to move my building. I took the roofing off that had been on eight years and put it on again, and found it as good as new. I used it on rafters without sheathing. I assure you all the Iron Roofing used here will be of your manufacture.
 Yours truly,
 C. F. MILLET.

Austin, Tex., March 1, 1883.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—You are at liberty to continue my testimonials given you in 1879. Your Roofing continues to do as well as then reported.
 C. F. MILLET,

VERMONT.

Ludlow, Vt., Jan. 1, 1883.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The Iron Roofing you furnished me last season is very satisfactory. The quality of the Iron is the very best. The mode of construction is very simple, and any one can easily put it on, and it makes a smooth, tight and pretty roof. I will send more orders soon.
 J. N. HARRIS.

Northfield, Vt., Dec. 28, 1882.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—We had serious trouble with a flat roof on the north side of a high building. Three years ago we covered it with your Iron Roofing, and have had no trouble with it since. We think your Roofing the best Metal Roofing in use.
 EDGERTON BROS.

Strafford, Vt., Dec. 29, 1882.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I am very well pleased with your Iron Roofing, and as my buildings need recov'ring, I shall use your material. I consider it a great protection against fire. My engine house roof covered four years ago is as good to-day as when first put on, although exposed to very trying weather, from melting and freezing, snow and ice.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I have used and sold considerable of your Iron Roofing for the past five years. I have seen other kinds used. Yours has given entire satisfaction, and as for myself, I would rather have it than any other kind of Iron Roofing. I say to all who inquire of me that I consider your Roofing the best.

Kingwood, W. Va., Dec. 29, 1882.

WM. M. O. DAWSON, Propr.
"The Journal."

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I have used your Iron Roofing since 1880 on my Dwelling House, and have found it all you claim for it. I find it is the very thing I have long looked for. Combining cheapness, durability, safety from fire and lightning. It is very satisfactory, and I am sure it will meet the demands of the public.

Tyrconnell, Taylor Co., W. Va., Jan. 5, 1883.

MARTIN L. SHIELDS.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The Iron Roofing I bought of you I found very satisfactory. I had no trouble to put it on myself with the assistance of an experienced hand. I am well pleased with it in every way.

New England, W. Va., Jan. 12, 1883.

G. E. LEAVITT.

Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The Iron Roofing we bought of you five years ago for our Store House, has given entire satisfaction. Our store is very close to the B. & O. R. where trains are continually passing, and therefore the roofing has been exposed to the sulphurous elements as well as the weather, and it is to all appearance as good as new.

Tunnelton, W. Va., Dec. 22, 1882.

R. F. SEXMITH,
Manufacturer and Dealer in Tin and Copper Ware, &c.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 4, 1883.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—The two Roofs we have used of your Iron Roofing have given entire satisfaction. Our roof being very flat, less than one-half inch fall to the foot, we at first hesitated about using it, but it having been so highly recommended, we concluded to give it a trial. We now would use no other kind, as it is by far the best and cheapest Roofing we have yet seen.

S. G. AUGUSTINE & SON,
Manufacturers of Furniture, &c.

Auburndale, Wis., Jan. 2, 1883.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—I wish to express my satisfaction with your Iron Roofing. I am manufacturing with a portable engine about five million feet of lumber per year, and before getting your Roofing my mill would be on fire nearly every day. I have had no trouble since, and can cheerfully advise any one using steam power to put on your Iron Roofing.

JOHN SLOTHOWER.

Lacrosse, Wis., Jan. 2, 1883.
Porter Iron Roofing Co.—We have used your Iron Roofing and Siding during the past season, some we put on ourselves, and some was put on by the carpenter. Thus far it has all given satisfaction to the parties using it.
